

A white, foldable, and stackable storage box, likely made of polypropylene, shown in its folded state. The box is designed with a simple, functional structure that allows it to be easily collapsed for storage or transport. It features a single large compartment and a small, rectangular cutout on the side, possibly for ventilation or identification. The material appears to be a smooth, slightly glossy plastic. The box is shown against a plain, light-colored background, emphasizing its clean and minimalist design.

Coloris disponibles :

- Semi ouverture facilitant le glissement du badge d'identification,
- encoche pour le fixer au tour de cou.